The Amazing Gift of YOUR Marriage…
An assessment of how your marriage is a benefit to you and your spouse.

According to research done by Linda Waite and Maggie Gallagher and published in their book, “The Case for Marriage,” couples in successful marriages experience a great number of personal benefits. Twelve of the most outstanding are selected here to assist you in assessing the “successfulness” of your marriage.

This assessment is merely a tool to help you take a look at your marriage, to give you a “snapshot” of how marriage is a gift in your life, and to identify areas where some attention is needed. This is also the pre-workshop homework for couples attending The Amazing Gift of Your Marriage workshop or coaching session.

Directions: Read through the following list of benefits of a successful marriage, then complete the assessment that follows. Give the answer that best fits the statement; very often it will be the first one that “pops” in your head.

1. Teamwork: Successful couples approach their life together as a team.
2. Self-discovery: Successful couples discover their separate gifts and develop them in a complementary way.
3. Maturity: Successful couples hold one another accountable; each becomes a better person.
4. Wealth-building: Successful couples take positive steps to create wealth but do not allow wealth to become the center of their relationship.
5. Healthy Lifestyles: Successful couples live healthy lifestyles.
6. Workplace Success: Successful couples bring the gifts and talents from their marriage to help them succeed in the workplace or managing the home, for those who are homemakers.
7. Good Neighbors: Successful couples bring the gifts and talents from their marriage to help them be a good neighbor and involved citizen.
8. The Best Caregivers: Successful couples take care of one another during illness and personal crisis.
9. Friends: Successful couples have fun together as life-long friends and companions.
10. Children: Successful couples welcome children into their lives if they can have children, and when they cannot, they find ways to unselfishly give themselves to others.
11. Mental and Emotional Health: Successful couples manage stress, learn to work out conflicts before they get out of hand, and keep a positive, hopeful view of life.
12. Great Sex: Successful couples enjoy a mutually satisfying sex life that is pleasurable, frequent enough, and a favorite way of saying “I love you.”

Tally your score. Count the number of 1s, 2s, 3s, and 4s you circled. Write down each tally, then multiply that number by the indicated factor (e.g. If you had eight 1s, the score would be $8 \times 1 = 8$. If you had eight 2s, the score would be $8 \times 2 = 16$). Add the sums together to determine your total score. The lower the score, the more successful the marriage.
